Prestige

Basics of Prestiging.

What is it?

Prestiging is the process of bringing your game back to the very start and the very first level and often times losing your powers, weapon or the like, but relying on the presence of special item that allow you to progress faster in your next go-around. So how can you prestige in this game and do it right? Well this guide will take you step by step on the process and how to become a master at it!

The Basics of Prestiging

One thing hasn't changed from the original Tap Titans when it comes to prestiging, and its the fact that in most case, you can only do so at level 600 or later. Other than that, the only way you can prestige before level 600 is if you are not currently entered in a tournament, and if you start the tournament afterwards. Just hit the join button and you prestige automatically.

Oftentimes, It's Best To Wait Till You're Past Level 600

Its always best to not prestige as soon as you've gone past 600. You might want to get more artifacts as a result of prestiging, so if you want to do this, wait until your hero level has gone up a bit, complete more levels and kill more bosses, while unlocking more heroes. Each time you unlock a new hero it will help give you that extra boost for some more level gains. Keep going till you can no longer kill a Titan boss or the time between bosses exceeds a few minutes. The benefit of waiting to prestige is that you get a much more higher relics rewards and even more chance of unlocking Skill points and equipment along the way.

What Can You Do If You've Got Lots Of Relics?

If you currently have lots of relics on you, then you've got the option to buy a new artifacts or upgrading a an existing one. It is recommended to level your Book Of Shadows in between tournament days and during tournaments switch to level your Build Type artifacts or buying a new artifact.

Prestige

Basics of Prestiging.

Make It Rain Right Before You Prestige

Tap Titan 2 has a “Make It Rain” perk, and this would become available to you either via daily rewards, or by buying it with diamonds from the shop, dropped from Fat Fairies or winning from a “Perk” type tournament. It always best to use “Make It Rain” just before you about to prestige and if you've done it quick enough, it will carry the gold over to your new run, giving you a massive boost in gold to begin your new run with! It is recommend to use this feature just before a tournament to give yourself a better head start.

When To Prestige Before A Tournament

Ideally you will want to save up a couple of full runs worth of relics before a tournament this is so you have a bunch of relics you can use to buy new artifacts or level existing ones, once you've joined a tournament. If you in a middle of a run, try to get as close to Max Stage as you can before joining a tournament, again so you begin the tournament with more relics to spend.

Join A Clan And Prestige Faster!

Joining a clan early is a great way to prestige and farm faster. Try to join the highest level clan as you can, which has a very high Clan Raid Experience, clans with high Clan Raid experience will give you a bigger boost to “Advance Start”. A Higher “Advance Start” lets you begin a higher stage after you prestige, this helps make runs shorter, giving you more time to prestige more!

Guide To Farming

Farming is a part of the game that we spend most of our time on, and it is good to understand what we need to do to maximize the benefits we get for the time we spend. For those who don't know, farming is the act of prestiging, typically below our max stage, to gain relics and help level up our artifacts to become stronger. Meanwhile, pushing is when we exceed our max stage and try to increase it as much as possible.

The basic premise of farming is simple. You prestige, play until you slow down and cannot easily progress, then prestige and do it again.

Typically this slow down point is around when you cannot kill the bosses in a single hit anymore or cannot splash anymore. However, this exact point will be different for each player and each build. This is when the metric for determining your most optimal prestige stage comes into play:

Relics per Minute. Simply put, you can use the prestige screen to compare the number of relics you get from a prestige and the amount of time it took to get there. The point where you are getting the largest number when you divide your number of relics by your minutes to reach that point is your optimal prestige point. You may find that pushing even when things are slow can actually increase your relics per minute due to the relic gains you get from increasing your max stage. You will need to do this to find out for yourself.

When talking about farming, speed is typically one of the biggest concerns. You want to be able to do your farming runs quickly to maximize your relic gains, but you also want to make sure that you do not lose too much power when doing this. Having fast farming prestiges is important, but it is also important to maintain higher relics per minute. We can break down ways to improve our speed into some distinct categories

Doom
 Increases damage over time for 12 hours. Damage is increased against each Titan each second for up to 100x damage over 30 seconds.

1. Prestige relics. Books of Shadows is known as the most powerful artifact for a reason, and it's simply because it allows you to gain many times more relics each prestige than you would normally. More relics = more artifact levels = more power = more progression = more relics.
2. Splashing and skipping boosts. These help you go faster by increasing your splash count, splash skip, multi-spawns, and Portar/Snap spawn chance. These are typically the boosts that people will refer to as "farming boosts"; simply because they don't give any damage or gold boosts by themselves, but increase the speed you can farm.
3. Cool down reduction and duration increases. These help you reduce the amount of times you need to interact with the game in order to prestige, or reduce the time waiting for an event to happen.
4. Mana capacity, mana regeneration, and mana cost reductions. These allow you to not wait around for mana, and thus allow you to progress without interruption. These are similar to the cooldown reductions mentioned in the last bullet point, but some builds like Heavenly Strike have such high mana requirements that these deserve their own category.

Power Surge
 Lv. 25
 +40 Pet Splash Skip

Mystical Impact
 Lv. 19
 +34 Sorcerer Splash Skip

Arcane Bargain
 Lv. 15
 +15 Passive Skill Effects

Anti-Titan Cannon
 Lv. 34
 +49 Clan Ship Splash Skip

5. Faster sources of gold or damage. For gold, getting boosts that help Boss or Chesterson gold can be better than boosts that help Fairy or pHoM gold, simply because these gold sources will pay out your gold faster. Similarly, a damage multiplier that doesn't require a delay is faster than something like the boost from Anchoring Shot, Lightning Strike, or Doom, and thus are excellent for farming. While a damage skill that requires delay can be powerful, this delay can also reduce your relics per minute even if you do end up progressing further in a prestige.

6. Silent March. Boosts that allow you to progress offline faster and more smoothly allow you to pay less attention to the game and get greater rewards. This includes boosts to inactive damage, multi-spawns, and inactive advancement speed.

When looking at how you evaluate a build in terms of farming, you will want to consider these above points. You care about how much your build will splash, how many hits it will take to defeat a single stage, and how long you will need to wait to defeat a titan. These can typically be seen at a glance by checking the splash skip, splash count, and cooldowns of your build, but the true test will always be to simply try it out for yourself and find out your relics per minute.

Equipment Farming

No matter how dedicated you are, you want to try and do four prestiges in a single day. This is due to equipment farming. Equipment farming is a way where we can gather up to a maximum of twenty equipment per day by progressing through stages we have already beaten. More specifically, up to five equipment (low max stage players will get three or four) will be randomly distributed among bosses between 80% and 99% of your max stage when you prestige. When you defeat those bosses, you will get an equipment drop. This is a great source of free diamonds and additional chances at equipment to complete your equipment sets or improve your current equipment. If you are curious about seeing where your equipment drops are, using an app like SequenceTT2 can tell you the exact stage your farmed equipment will be.

As a special consideration, you should make sure that you pick up your farmed equipment off the ground before your daily shop reset happens at midnight. Your daily farmed equipment count will reset at midnight, but any farmed equipment you have on the ground will count against your farmed equipment count for the next day. This means that if you keep all 20 equipment on the ground, you will not get any new farmed equipment until you pick them up and then wait until the next daily shop reset.
